In the wake of Hurricane Matthew, Dare County Schools announced the following makeup days for the two days of classes that were missed:

- Monday, Feb. 20, has shifted from a teacher work day on the Presidents' Day holiday to a regular school day.
- Friday, June 9, will now be the final day of the school year instead of Thursday, June 8. The final school day is an early-release day.

First-semester exams at the high school will be given Wednesday and Thursday, Jan. 18-19, prior to the end of the semester on Friday, Jan. 20, which is an early-release day. Students are out Monday, Jan. 16, for the Martin Luther King Jr. holiday and Monday, Jan. 23, for a teacher work day. All students should be in school for their final exams, which count 25 percent of their semester grade.
